Forecast For Northeast England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Thursday 12 Aug 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:
Fine, dry with sunny spells. Cloud increasing later.

Today:
Bright start with sunny spells and light winds. A largely fine and sunny day follows, although the breeze will strengthen. Cloud amounts increasing during the afternoon, especially across the Pennines, with a chance of light rain or drizzle by dusk. Maximum temperature 21 deg C (70 deg F).

Tonight:
Patchy cloud across western hills could give the odd spot of rain during the first half of the night, before clearing later. Elsewhere, dry but breezy with clear spells. Minimum temperature 10 deg C (50 deg F).

Friday:
Cloud will thicken through the morning, especially across the west with showers possible. Many parts staying dry with sunny spells however, these most frequent across the south and east. Breezy. Maximum temperature 19 deg C (66 deg F).

Outlook for Saturday to Monday:
Mostly fine Saturday. Turning unsettled with spells of rain or showers Sunday and Monday. These most likely and perhaps persistent across southern parts. Some sunny spells also possible. Low confidence.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.